a/ This table has been compiled from data submitted by 98 (out of 113) field offices, 10 of which did not support any project financed from non-UNDP sources during 1990. This table is only indicative of the amount of non-UNDP expenditures supported by the field offices.

b/ Refers to instances where field office support was minimal compared to overall need for project support and administration (e.g., initial discussions, information provided to other agencies).

c/ Refers to instances where field office support of project was in the nature of a major contribution (e.g., expert and equipment clearances, fellowship recruitment, local payments for agency regular or funds-in-trust expenditures).

a/ This table has been compiled from data submitted by 79 (out of 113) field offices, 37 of which did not report any parallel (i.e., complementary) financing. The data contained in this table are only indicative of the amount of parallel financing of UNDP-supported projects and programmes.

Note:

(a) The relationship between UNDP-assisted projects and reported investment commitment is classified as follows: CATEGORY A relates to reported commitments for which the UNDP-assisted projects carried out micro-type pre-investment studies such as identification, pre-feasibility and feasibility studies which collect, analyse and present economic, financial, technical, institutional and social data in a form that would facilitate capital investment decisions; preparatory activities such as engineering studies, final design, site preparation, etc., are also included in this category when they are carried out prior to the investment stage. CATEGORY B relates to commitments resulting from macro-type studies such as general area or regional planning studies, sector development studies, natural resources surveys, master plans, etc., all of which broadly identify the need for follow-up investment. CATEGORY C commitments stem from technical co-operation activities which support capital investment projects, such as assistance in the execution and supervision of investment projects, training of technical and managerial staff, etc. The purpose of these projects is to facilitate, implement or otherwise streamline the capital investment project. Note also that the data refer to commitments and not actual investment.

(b) The data contained in this and the following table (table 10) are rough estimates for 1990 because (i) they may involve double-counting of previous years' commitments; (ii) they may involve counting of commitments identified for 1991; and (iii) because of incomplete data. Final data for 1989 will be available in the Investment Commitment Report for 1990.

Footnotes to table 12

a/ The data in this table are based on projects financed from the Indicative Planning Figures, Special Programme Resources, Special Measures Fund for Least Developed Countries, Special Industrial Services and cost-sharing. This table does not include UN Volunteers funded from non-UNDP sources such as agency trust funds or regular budgets.

b/ This column gives the number of UN Volunteers assigned to a specific recipient country during the year considered. The total in this column is greater than that of the corresponding column of table 13 because some UN Volunteers might have had more than one assignment during the year (ie., the number of assignments is always greater than nationality).

c/ This column gives the number of international experts assigned to a specific recipient country during the year considered. It includes all experts working on projects financed from sources mentioned in a/ above. Aside from experts fielded by executing agencies, operational assistance experts, associate experts and experts who were staff members of firms and organizations working under subcontract to the participating/executing agencies are also included. Note that the total of this column is greater than that of the corresponding column of table 13 because this table makes provision for the fact that some experts had more than one assignment during the year concerned.

d/ This column gives the number of fellowships awarded to a specific recipient country during the year considered. It includes fellowships awarded from projects financed from sources mentioned in a/. It also includes participants in seminars, training courses and related projects. Note that the total of this column is less than that of the corresponding column of table 13 because the latter table makes provision for the fact that some fellowship awards required study in two or more countries.

e/ On 22 May 1990, Democratic Yemen and Yemen merged to form a single State. Since that date they have been represented as one Member of the United Nations with the name "Yemen". The data are reported separately here since the study was completed prior to the merger.

a/ The data in this table are based on projects financed from the Indicative Planning Figures, Special Programme Resources Special Measures Fund for Least Developed Countries, Special Industrial Services and cost-sharing. This table therefore does not include UN Volunteers funded from non-UNDP sources such as agency trust funds or regular budgets.

b/ This column gives international experts by nationality. It includes all international experts who worked on projects financed from sources in a/. Aside from experts fielded by executing agencies, operational assistance experts, associate experts and experts who were staff members of firms and organizations working under subcontract to the participating/executing agencies are also included. Note that the total of this column is less than that of the corresponding column of table 12 because the latter table makes provision for the fact that some experts might have had more than one assignment during the year concerned.

c/ This column gives national experts, by nationality, who worked on projects financed from sources in a/. These national experts might have been fielded by executing agencies or worked under subcontract to the participating/executing agencies.

d/ This column gives UN Volunteers by nationality. The total of this column is less than that of the corresponding column of table 12, since some UNVs have had more than one assignments during the year concerned. That is, nationality is always less that the number of assignments.

e/ This column gives fellowships placed in a specific country by project financed from sources in a/. It also includes participants in seminars and training courses. Note that the total of this column is greater than that of the corresponding column of table 12. Table 13 makes provision for the fact that some fellowships required study in more than one country.

f/ This column gives the value of equipment ordered from specific countries.

g/ The data in this column represents the value of subcontracts awarded to specific countries. It includes new subcontracts awarded in 1990 as well as net additions to sub-contracts awarded in 1989.

h/ On 22 May 1990, the Democratic Yemen and Yemen merged to form a single State. Since that date they have been represented as one Member of the United Nations with the name "Yemen". The data are reported separately here since the study was completed prior to the merger.

i/ Data on individual country not readily available.

j/ Through the accession of the German Democratic Republic to the Federal Republic of Germany with effect from 3 October 1990, the two German States have united to form one sovereign State; the data in table 13 have been combined.
